

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Producing a journal is a group effort. There are the authors who submit their manuscripts (some accepted, some rejected). There are the reviewers, listed below, who so generously give of their time. There is the Department of Rural Sociology at Texas A&M, which has supported this effort in so many ways: I particularly want to thank Patricia Bramwell for her support. Then there are typists who take special care for their work and "how it will look in the Journal." I especially want to thank Janelle L. Johnson and Edna M. Lumpkin. Finally, there is the copy editor, Kathleen K. Leabo, who has a knack for raising irreverent questions about content as she put things into proper form.
